

Build a City

Discover the power of teamwork as you construct a bustling cityscape

The Build-a-City is an engaging and collaborative team-building activity that encourages participants to think creatively and work together towards a common goal. Teams are tasked with designing a section of a bustling city, complete with distinct zones like residential, industrial, leisure, and business districts. Each team is responsible for designing their own section, but must work in close collaboration with other teams to ensure a seamless flow of transportation networks and a uniformity of design across the city.

How it Works:

To bring their vision to life, teams utilize a wide range of materials and resources, from building blocks to crafting supplies, to construct an aesthetically pleasing city. As the clock ticks down, teams race against time to complete their designs and join their sections of the city together. The result is a stunning and vibrant cityscape that showcases the collective effort and creativity of the participants. The Build-a-City is an excellent way to foster teamwork, communication, and problem-solving skills while encouraging participants to think outside the box and unleash their creativity.
