

Rat Trap

Can your team master the art of coordination and resourcefulness to set off the perfect chain reaction?

Rat Trap is an exciting team building activity that encourages creativity and resourcefulness. Participants have access to a variety of giant-sized construction pieces and materials, and their goal is to construct a series of interconnected contraptions that trigger a chain reaction when properly arranged. Each device must ingeniously lead to the next, requiring flawless execution to create a knock-on effect among teams aiming for the same goal. Successfully completing the chain reaction leads to a rewarding outcome (but not for the rat!).

How it Works:

Teams must rely on their ingenuity to determine the right placements and roles, showcasing their resourcefulness and cooperation. Building and positioning structures accurately is crucial for success, emphasizing the importance of understanding the bigger picture and promoting seamless integration among teams. With time constraints adding excitement, Rat Trap is a fun and effective way to enhance communication, creativity, and resourcefulness within your team.
